

I'm just writing this to let the church know about a physical healing which occurred whilst Bruce Collins was here.

I had seen healings before so this idea wasn't new to me but I still had doubts. Until the Sunday morning service where Bruce spoke that is.

I was sitting there quietly minding my own business with my legs outstretched and crossed in front of me. Then I suddenly noticed that I had a pins and needles sensation in my left lower leg (which was strange since my left leg was on top of my right one which should have been the one with the weird sensation - logically).

I never thought too much about it at that point, but to paint the bigger picture, I had sprained my left ankle about a month earlier and had been in some serious pain since then.

So I was just sitting there in the service, quietly going about my Sunday "duties" when the sensation stopped happening. Again I never thought too much about it, but just as this feeling stopped, Bruce finished his talk and we began to sing another worship song. I stood up to sing, and for some crazy reason I put my full weight on my left foot which I hadn't done in over a month. And there was no pain.

Strange.

Immediately following this, Bruce and his team began to read out a list of illnesses or ailments which they believed God had showed them in the church.

Well when Bruce read out that there was someone in the church with an injured lower leg or foot that God wants to heal, everything finally fell into place. I sat down and began calling out to God and praising him.

It just so happened that I had my soccer debut for a major league soccer team in Calgary that afternoon. I fully believe that God healed my ankle injury so that I could represent him the best I possibly could out on the soccer field and also in every aspect of my walk (pardon the pun) with him.

This was such an encouragement to me and also to others I have told about the whole experience. So I thought I'd share it with you guys and I pray that it encourages everyone who reads this.
